DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

1. Claims 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mak et al. (US 2002/0198136 A1).

This rejection is analogous to the original rejection.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed January 16, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argument takes position that Mak et al. conversely teaches away from the instant invention since the continuous dosing procedure would result in more inconvenience and expense to the patient, while the more exact dosing requirements taught in the present invention would ease these burdens.

This argument is found unpersuasive at all. Although Mak expresses a preference for a continuous delivery of said compound in a vaginal suppository, a cervical ring or an intrauterine device, at the same time the reference provides the delivery of said compound in sustained or controlled delivery topical formulations (page 11, para. 105 and page 12, para. 112). Unlike applicant's alleged interpretation of "continuous delivery" in a sense of "frequent administration of said compound", the referenced "continuous delivery" rather points to the delivery of said compound in longer period of the time by controlled or sustained delivery system or device. Unlike applicant's alleged "teaching away" of Mak, Mak provides motivation for the ordinary skill in the art to deliver said compound in controlled or sustained topical delivery system or device. As discussed in preceding comments, the examiner is not convinced that there is a sufficient teaching away in the art to overcome the obviousness rejection over Mak et al. (2002/0198136 A1).

Therefore, the examiner maintains that the determination of a dosage form or concurrent administration regimen or frequency is well within the level of one having ordinary skill in the art, and the artisan would be motivated to determine optimum amounts or concurrent administration regimen or frequency to get the maximum effect of the drug. Hence, the reference makes obvious the instant invention.

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
